

Managed User and Security Support Case Study

The changing times and IT requirements means changing business support facilities and how they're managed.

With the strains of cryptolocker and ransomware that have become ever more virulent, prevalent and frequent, we have identified that our clients need to be even better protected.

Viruses are now intelligent, sophisticated and in very many cases criminal business generating tools that can cause untold technical and financial damage to business infrastructure and reputation if strong security layers are not implemented.

Our User Support not only covers Desktop Support and Device Management at its foundations, but we have wrapped a Managed Security Pack around it as well.

Bolting on to our Proactive Server Monitoring and Email Security Filtering, our managed security elements such as desktop web filtering, desktop anti-virus and anti-malware, proactive desktop patching and SLA-backed device support are part of our User Support as standard to ensure maximum support and protection for our clients.

Hashtags Etc, a branding and promotional marketing company relies on Amazing Support for their day-to-day IT to keep their staff and equipment supported, as well as ensuring that security solutions are in place to maintain business protection.

“ Often you come off the phone from a customer support helpline feeling ‘they don’t know anything’ but I just came off the phone from Amazing Support feeling confident and happy that they know what the problem is, that they have a solution in mind, that they are working on it, that they will keep me updated and that they will call me back. That’s what you want from an IT support company.
